

TWO PERFECT DAYS IN

Marrakech

Day 1

- Bahia Palace
 - Spend about 2 hours here admiring the beauty of Moroccan architecture. This is a relaxing spot to start your day and get introduced to this chaotic city.
- Jemaa El Fna Square & Souk Shopping
 - From your first stop, you will walk here (~15 mins) along the small streets of the medina. The walk will show you a more traditional way of living and allow you to admire the complexity of this city. The souks surround the square so start shopping!
- Marrakech Museum
 - Continuing the exploration of the old town, head over to the Museum from the maze of the souks which should be anywhere from 10 to 20 mins. You can admire great art as well as the outdoor gardens. If open after renovations, head over to Ben Youssef Madrasa which is nearby as well.
- Koutoubia Mosque
 - Walk back to the mosque or catch a taxi and admire its beautiful exterior. It's a short 10-minute walk and you cannot enter inside as a non-muslim. There is a small park outside worth a stop.
- Riad or Hostel
 - Marrakech has beautiful lodging. Even hostels are ornate and offer some sweet rooftop views. End your busy day relaxing and enjoying what your stay has to offer.

Day 2

- Saadian Tombs
 - Catch a taxi or walk to the famous tombs located on the outskirts of town. This is an ornate burial site of the Saadian dynasty.
- El Badii Palace
 - Located right next to the tombs, these two sites can be combined into one stop. The palace offers beautiful views with a small reflecting pool.
- Jardin Majorelle
 - Walking through the newer town, you can reach this stunning garden and museum on foot. It is Yves Saint Laurent's former garden. You will be able to see a very different side of Marrakech in this area. Stay up to 2 hours.
- Gueliz Shopping
 - If you were overwhelmed by the craziness of the souks, shopping in the new part of town will be a nice change for you. Anything from little shops to large shopping centers around Avenue Mohammed V.
- Back to Jemaa El Fna
 - The chaos of the square needs to be experienced during the day and the night. The night makes it much more mysterious, loud, and just simply crazy. If it's too much for you to walk around, I suggest grabbing a tea on the balcony of a restaurant and watching the chaos from above.
- Riad or Hostel
 - Marrakech has beautiful lodging so take full advantage of your last night here by enjoying your stay.
